

Written by Ernest Kanjo

Wednesday, 20 February 2013 23:24 - Last Updated Saturday, 23 February 2013 07:01

Shot and produced in 2012, Votary, the much-talked about Cameroonian movie is set to meet its audience. The premiere for the movie is slated for March 2, 2013 at Eta Palace Hotel, Buea, South West region of Cameroon. According to producers of the movie, its premiere will be a first-of-its kind event. The reason is simple – it has been subcontracted to a professional event management outfit. Ahead of the March 2 event, we got in touch with producer Billy Bob Ndivo Lifongo. On the line to Yaounde, Billy explained how he and his team were preparing for the event. He spoke with editor Ernest Kanjo. Excerpts!

Ernest Kanjo (EK): How would you assess the level of preparedness for the premiere of Votary ?

Billy Bob (BB): Everything is moving on as planned, not without hitches though. Over seventy percent of what is anticipated for the premiere has been realized. We intend to give the Votary premiere a different touch entirely. The obvious as far as red carpet events are concerned shall not be seen. We are innovating and making history with the

Votary

Premiere. We hope to make Cameroon proud.

Written by Ernest Kanjo

Wednesday, 20 February 2013 23:24 - Last Updated Saturday, 23 February 2013 07:01

